BY Wm. A. M'WHORTER.

One company of Atlanta's coming citizens admire the great work of Chief Beavers, for the moral uplift of our city. Over at Tech High school the first grade boys of section C have organized a literary society in honor of Chief Beavers and have named the organization "The Chief Beavers' Literary and Debating Society." The boys are enthusiastic in their support of the society and trust that they will be as successful in the art of public speaking as the chief has been in his crusade against vice.

The organization has chosen the following officers: Homer Bramlett, president; Arthur Delaney, vice president; Frank Margeson, secretary.

Several enthusiastic meetings have been held, and the boys expect Chief Beavers to come out and address them at an early date.
